

Privacy and confidentiality

Fallon Health's privacy policies protect the confidentiality of member information and records. Relevant elements of our policies include:

1. We recognize that Fallon Health and healthcare providers serving Fallon Health members create, collect, maintain, and process sensitive and confidential information about members, employees, and other providers, and about business and administrative functions.
2. We require that all healthcare providers serving Fallon Health members ensure compliance with relevant and applicable privacy and confidentiality laws and regulations, including, but not limited to The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), The Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act (HITECH), 42 CFR Part 2, Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act (GINA), and state laws in the state(s) or commonwealth(s) they practice in.
3. Providers serving Fallon Health members must ensure that members or their legally authorized representatives have timely access to their records as allowed by relevant state and federal law.
4. Confidential information will be protected from access, use, removal, editing, or disclosure by unauthorized individuals.
5. Access to areas where confidential information may be discussed (e.g., patient treatment areas) will be limited to only those staff whose presence is required for a legitimate purpose.
6. Access to areas where paper records are maintained, or where electronic records are accessed, must be limited to only those staff with appropriate rights and role-based access.
7. If telehealth or other remote technologies are used by providers serving Fallon Health members, such privacy and confidentiality protections shall extend to the locations where staff are remotely working from, and the platforms used by such staff.
